

I'm sure you're getting more than enough boilerplate, so I won't compound the boredom. Just let it be said that there are many citizens besides myself who are not happy with the Sinclair/"Stolen Honor" snafu. It says reams about the corruption of power and the illicit collusion of politics and the media, and it says reams about the people involved. I, for one, am disgusted.

I strongly urge the FCC to deal with this situation in a way that supports the principles on which this country was founded, and to do so quickly and decisively.

Thank you for your time and attention to this matter.

Sincerely,
Geoff Burkman
